

Figure 27. A photograph of acoustic transducers (A) on an Acoustic Backscatter Sensor (ABS) (B). The ABS transducers emit pulses of high frequency sound which are reflected by suspended sediments in the water column. The quantity of sound reflected back to the sensor is combined with instrument calibration information to derive vertical profiles of suspended sediment concentrations.