

Figure 26. A photograph of D&A Instruments Optical Backscatter Sensors (OBS). The OBS emits a beam of infrared light that is scattered by suspended sediments in the water column. Suspended sediment concentration is derived by combining the quantity of light reflected back to the sensor with sensor calibration coefficients. This photo is courtesy of D&A Instruments.